California Chicken Grill Delivery Driver Robbed

Early this morning at approximately 1:15AM, a California Chicken Grill delivery driver took a take-out order to 810 Wadsworth Street (Campus Walk Apartments). As the driver arrived at the apartment complex, he called the phone number listed on the order and was directed to an apartment. When the driver knocked on the door, the person living at the residence stated he did not order any food. The driver then walked back down the stairs and was approached by four black male subjects. The first black male, wearing a black head rag and white shirt, asked for the food and wanted to know if the driver had change for a $50.00 dollar bill. As the driver explained the food was not for them and began to walk away, a second black male who had on a red shirt and blue jeans grabbed the food while the first black male pulled out a black revolver and pointed it at the victim's face. The victim reported two other black males were present but he could not provide a description because it was dark outside. After taking the food, the four unknown males ran north on Wadsworth Street. The victim was not injured in this robbery.
